Search yourself; there are some new counterfeit ten-dollar bills afloat.

Chester ought to feel cheery that it has got to spend $12,000 for new schools.

Governor George H. Prouty, LL. D. One of the rewards of the governorship.

It is perhaps significant that State Highway Commissioner Gates meets the automobilists as well as the road commissioners.

Even with an A. M. hitched to his name, Editor Johnson of the Randolph Herald and News won't be inebriatedly enmeshed. Norwich is faithful to this one of her sons.

Suggesting a handle to Burlington, a correspondent of the Burlington News suggests a double-B Burlington, something like this: "Beastly, Blasphemous Burlington." Something better would be "Burke, Burke, Burlington," and then some more.

The Putney man who left a roll of $400 on the piano while a gypsy woman was in the room deserved to lose the roll because of his childlike trustfulness. It is like putting an untrapped mouse before a cat's nose and expecting pussy got to teach little mouse.

Justice is not moving slowly in Vermont courts nowadays, when a man is convicted of manslaughter after a week's trial in Benning county and a man is indicted for murder by a Windsor county grand jury the day following his alleged commission of the crime. Rather is justice putting on the wings of Mercury himself.

The beautiful lakes of Killarney in Ireland, famed in song and the prospect of the European visitor, are treacherous as well as beautiful. The drowning of nine tourists and two local boatmen on Wednesday is evidence enough of it, although the tourist, as he is propelled over the placid surface of the waters on a calm day, thinks not of any danger, but is absorbed in the entrancing beauties of this gem of old Ireland.

The Vermont druggists' association, by a round-about method, have nominated Lieut. Gov. Mead of Rutland for governor, as we suppose. At their state convention at Bennington, near Rutland, they voted in Mr. Mead as an honorary member of the association, everyone seconding the motion, we are told, and the motion being carried unanimously. Then, up jumped some member of the association with "How proud we should feel to have a member of this society governor of this state," whereat there was much applause and gazing in the direction of the new honorary member. These are the ways that governors are sometimes made in Vermont.

The trend of thought, as indicating a smug self-satisfaction of some natives of Vermont, is well set forth in the following criticism by the Barton Monitor.

Sarsatabs

Chocolate-coated tablets, combine the most successful remedies for all humors and eruptions, stomach, liver and kidney ailments, loss of appetite, bad food, indigestion, etc. They are a solid extract of Hood's Sarsaparilla, having all its wonderful medicinal properties, to take and exceedingly economical. Five great satisfaction, especially to people suffering from skin diseases, blood impurities, etc. Druggists or mail, C. J. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass. If Made by Hood It's Good.

tor of the ultra-conservative attitude of some people in Barton: "Waterbury recently congratulated itself on the fact that it had helped another granite industry to locate in their beautiful and bustling village, the St. Albans board of trade just recently took considerable credit to itself to think it had secured the location of some sheds there, Northfield has recently done some crowing because additional granite industries were building up there, Barre and Montpelier both keep all they have and induce others to come, many other towns want them, yet a number of the moneyed and influential men of Barton oppose such an industry on the ground that the element it will bring to this place will be so very low and degrading that Barton will be injured thereby. Is it possible that St. Albans, Montpelier, Barre, Waterbury, Northfield and other bustling towns that might be mentioned are making such awful blunders as many here would have us think Barton is making in reaching out for additional industry?"

A ONE-INDUSTRY CITY INDEED.

While not prepared to admit that Barre will show a larger population than Rutland at the next census, the Rutland News admits that Barre is already close on Rutland's heels and with a chance of going ahead within a short time. However, The News is banking on the fact that Rutland has "manifold industries" while Barre has "practically only one industry," expecting that perhaps Barre may find she has reached her full development. While it is true that Barre is dependent largely upon one industry, it is also certain that the granite industry is still far from reaching the height of its growth. There is, for example, the building stone side of the industry, which has not been tried at all and which can be developed readily with a reasonable outlay of energy, well directed. When this branch of the business is developed, a great many granite workers will be attracted here. Then, again, there is the paving stone feature of the industry, which is little worked in Barre, which, if worst comes to worst, can be tried out. So, neighbor, you see that Barre granite is still far from its full exploiting, let alone the monumental side of the industry. Even with "practically only one industry," Barre is well fixed and is bound to grow through its spread.

CURRENT COMMENT

Following Time-ripened Plans.

Work on the Cape Cod canal that was talked about in the days of the Pilgrims has actually begun. It is about time to dig the East Side tunnel, a project dear to the heart of Roger Williams.—Providence Journal.

A Tariff, Right or Wrong.

"Is it right to tax every fruit dealer, every canner, every grocer and every consumer in the United States to benefit a mere handful of fruit growers?" asks the Baltimore Sun. Right? Of course, it is not right. But what on earth has that to do with it in stand-pat philosophy?—Washington Herald.

The Free Hides Defeat.

Only sixteen Republican senators out of a membership of nearly four times that number were willing to go on record against the duty on hides, one of the most inexcusable of the impositions of the Dingley law. From the day of its passage until this it has been commonly assumed that it was a mistake to be corrected the next time the tariff was overhauled. While it is not yet too late to hope that Mr. Taft's influence in conference will turn the scale in favor of the House provision, its overwhelming defeat in the Senate is decidedly ominous. It will now be uphill work to secure the abolition of this duty. Of the sixteen senators who voted for free hides, New England, the home of the shoe industry, contributed only Frye, Burnham, Page, Lodge and Crane, or one senator from each of the three Northern states and none from the two Southern. Mr. Aldrich would doubtless personally prefer free hides, but as the leader of an army he must maintain the desire of each of its constituent elements.

This is the distressing part of the protective system. In operation it commits its adherents to the support of any duty, no matter how prejudicial to the general welfare, that any single great interest thinks it wants. It is entirely likely that the shoe men would have done better in this fight had they gone in with an announced willingness to take free shoes; it may not be too late to reach a compromise on this basis now.—Boston Transcript.

Actors and Long Hair.

Why do actors so often wear long hair? Perhaps this is the reason: There once was a statute in England under which actors found wandering were liable to be branded through the right ear. The long hair concealed the decoration and thus the custom was started.—Chicago News.

This Year's Fourth.

With the Fourth of July falling on Sunday this year, it is more to be desired than usual that the noise and uproar of the celebration be confined to the one day of observance, Monday, the fifth. And as that is the day of the organized celebration, under the auspices of the various fraternal orders, there will be fun and frolic enough in that one day to compensate the small boy for waiting.—St. Albans Messenger.

ST. MARY'S GRADUATION.

Pleasing Exercises at Close of Burlington Institution Yesterday.

Burlington, June 23.—The 30th annual graduating exercises of St. Mary's academy were held yesterday afternoon in the academy hall. A large audience including many prominent clergymen of the state, was present and thoroughly enjoyed the interesting program rendered. The Rev. P. J. Barrett, superior of the convent, made the address and presented the medals for conspicuous merit. In his address, he spoke at some length upon the influence of the educated and cultured woman, taking up her sphere of life in the home and in other phases of life.

The music was especially meritorious. The students played selections from the greatest composers in a manner which reflected great credit both upon themselves and the school. The work of the string quartette and the recitations of Miss Mary Duggett were particularly pleasing and the essays showed careful preparation.

The graduates in the Latin-English course are Miss Marion Barbara Scott, Miss Mary Helent Duggett and Miss H. Hazel Morgan; in the English course, Miss Isadora Margaret Grancy, Miss Margaret McDonald, Miss Jeanette Wade Dunn and Miss Margaret Melmerney; in the music course, Miss H. Hazel Morgan and Miss Jeanette Wade Dunn.

Graduation medal—Gift of Rev. P. J. Barrett, awarded to Miss Marion Scott.

Graduation medal—Gift of Rev. W. J. O'Sullivan, awarded to Miss Marion Scott.

Graduation medal—Gift of Rev. C. C. Delaney, awarded to Miss Margaret McDonald.

Graduation medal—Gift of Mrs. E. M. Baird, awarded to Miss Hazel Morgan.

Graduation medal—Gift of Rev. W. P. Crosby, awarded to Miss Mary Duggett.

Graduation medal—Gift of Rev. P. Rand, awarded to Miss Jeanette Wade Dunn.

Graduation medal—Gift of a friend, awarded to Miss Margaret Melmerney.

Gold medal for Christian doctrine—Gift of a friend, awarded to Miss Mary Duggett.

Gold medal for music—Gift of Rev. R. Devoy, awarded to Miss Hazel Morgan.

Gold cross for Christian doctrine—Gift of Mrs. C. Arbuckle, awarded to Miss Alice McDonald.

COMFORTABLE AMBULANCE AT A MOMENT'S NOTICE

DRIVEN TO DESPERATION.

Grafters Resort to Violence to Throttle a Reform Newspaper.

Mrs. Fremont Older in an article in the July McClure's on San Francisco graft prosecution, tells how "Boss" Ruef and his backers tried to stop the circulation of a newspaper that was fighting them. She says:

"An election was approaching: Ruef and Schmitz hoped to capture the city for the third time. Now Ruef saw his goal; it should be Governor Schmitz; it should be United States Senator Ruef. That editor, yelping of his crimes, disturbed the boss' dreams. Ruef determined that the Bulletin should not be sold or distributed; it should not exist. To this end he organized a band of thugs who called themselves newspapers. They pretended to no grievance, and their sole purpose was to destroy the Bulletin. Carriers were assaulted; they afterward voted for Schmitz. Merchants were struck with stones and bricks for buying the paper; they afterward voted for Schmitz. Windows were broken in the Bulletin office. Houses were unharmed from the delivery wagons. Men were maimed for life; the police looked the other way. Mr. Older was followed to the very door of the Palace hotel by a howling mob, which threw sticks and stones at him. The deputy sheriffs who were called in looked the other way.

Schmitz addressed the thugs in a hall. No one could sell or deliver the Bulletin; it was useless to print it. Some old women at length ventured to hold the paper up in the streets. They alone were able to dispose of a few copies, but even purchasers were assaulted. When the Bulletin organized a body of men of its own, there was daily fighting in the streets; but only in this way, after a loss of many thousands of dollars, was the paper allowed to continue in circulation."

The Blue Rose.

It is by no means improbable that some day an enterprising rose grower may succeed in presenting the world with a blue rose. Not many years ago the idea of a green rose would have been ridiculed, yet today there is such a rose to offset the ancient blue, which we have not as yet. That it will come in time we may be sure. For more than half a century flower growers have been seeking to create a black rose. In this there has thus far been only partial success, one foreign florist having obtained a rose of so deep a crimson as to appear black in ordinary lights, but revealing the crimson heart when closely examined. This result the florist obtained, first, by selecting the darkest roses as breeders, and second, by the use of iron filings in the soil.—Suburban Life.
